Games begin with a bang

Opening ceremony lights up the city

The 11th WJC opens yesterday

While several beams of light shone into the deep night, six floating astronauts, 12 colorful smoke trails and five planets swayed over Chaoyang Sports Center as part of the opening ceremony called "Come on!

Youth!" for the 11th IAAF World Youth Championships at 8pm yesterday.

Highlighting the world's largest gathering of young athletes to demonstrate the vitality of youth, the ceremony lasted about one hour and was made up of four sections: Youth Sunrise, Youth and Passion, Youth Vigor, and Youth Come Up. The 'Youth Come Up' section was the athletes' match-in ceremony and accounted for approximately 30 minutes and the remaining three sections were part of cultural performances. The magnificent spectacle perfectly integrated audio, visual and electronic effects, fully demonstrating the elegant demeanor of Beijing and the charm of sports.

Xue Fei wins Women's 5,000 meters final

By Gan Tian

The Women's 5000m final was held at 9:55pm last night. Chinese athlete Xue Fei won the game with a result of 15:31.61, breaking her personal record. The silver medal went to Florence Jebet Kiplagat from Kenya, and the bronze medal went to Mary Wacera Ngugi also from Kenya.

"I didn't expect that. All my rivals are really good," the Chinese gold medalist said to the press. She caught up with Kiplagat in the last 50 meters, which impressed the audience with her skilled strategy. The other Chinese participant Bai Xue ranked fourth with 15:37.12.

The press conference was held immediately after the competition. Fourteen athletes from 10 countries took part in this event.

Dutch girl takes first gold

By Annie Wei

17-year-old Melissa Boekelman won the Shot Put yesterday with a record of 17.66 meters. Now the Dutch girl is ranked as the World Junior Leader.

"I did not expect to win," Boekelman said. "I thought Denise Hinrichs (No. 2 from Germany) would."

Sylvia Barlag, Boekelman's team leader was very happy with her result. "I feel stunned," Barlag said. Boekelman is in good shape for the sport and keeps making progress. Barlag said they knew Boekelman could make it because she is a very determined athlete. "She will be a big thrower," Barlag said.

Twelve people came into the final. Chinese athletes Liu Yingpan and Li Li ranked No. 5 and 6. Liu's best performance remains 18.70 meters in 2004 but she was still happy with her result. "This time is my best after my back and knees were injured in last year."

First record brought a hot start

By Liu Dong

A World Junior Record of the Men's Discus Throw (1.75kg) was made during the qualifying round by an athlete from Estonia yesterday morning. It is the first new WJ record made at the 11th championships.

The qualification of the Men's Discus Throw (1.750kg) was the first event held on the opening day. Divided into groups A and B, 27 athletes competed to enter the next round. Margus Hunt, born in 1987 and number 227, broke the WJ Record with a result of 66.35 in his first throw. His personal best is 64.32, which is also his 2006 best.

The best 12 athletes from 10 countries got their qualifications by reaching a standard of at least 56.55.

One man one country

By Chu Meng

Jonathan Bile Williams is the one and only athlete standing for his country Cote d'Ivoire, a country remote from our geographic knowledge. Unfortunately, his participation in this championship finished very quickly. He ran last in heat four of the First Round of the Men's 100m yesterday morning. His total appearance, or rather his country Cote d'Ivoire's appearance in the event was finished in a flash – only about 12 seconds.

With all the attention and hope, this 18-year-old shy sprinter did not feel pressure at all. "I felt rather happy instead. I see it as a great opportunity of the development of my athletic career," he said. He still participated in the evening's Opening Ceremony, proudly holding his national flag and circling the field.

Alexandria Anderson is confident to bring home a medal

Alexandria Anderson from the United States remained first in the women's semi-final competition, with a personal score of 11.51 seconds. She feels confident going into the next round of the competition.

"It felt very easy this round. Everything went as we planned. I am going to take the medal back home after tomorrow's final. My hands were shaking before the start, but when I was on the starting line they were okay. I felt very comfortable and smooth."

It was her second World Junior Championships but her first visit to Beijing. Many of her close friends came to the stadium to support her. "I would like to stay longer after the event, but I have a fixed training schedule back at home," she said. "I will come here again in two years for the Beijing Olympics and I will keep training strictly for the Games in the next couple of years to come."

Celine Distel, from France, ranked second with a score of 11.69 seconds and Schillone Calvert ranked third in the semi-final.

Turkey confident to strive for competition

By Wang Minna

Erguder Uzun, the vice-president of the Turkish Athletic Federation, said the Turkish delegation arrived in Beijing yesterday and had adapted to the weather, diet, accommodation and time difference very quickly. They are well-adjusted. They all have good physical and psychological conditions to meet the competition, he said. Turkey has sent a delegation of 17 individuals, which include 10 athletes and seven coaches and officials. They will participate in seven events including Hammer Throw(W), 800m(W), Triple Jump(W), 10,000m(W, M), 3000mSC(M), Discus(M).

He said in these events the Turkish team has no obvious advantages and the results will not be very prominent. Even though they will meet many strong competitors, they still have confidence in achieving good results, said Uzun. They are expecting to get one or two medals.

When asked about his impression of Beijing, he said Beijing is a modern city. He was especially impressed by the friendliness and enthusiasm of Chinese people. He felt very happy but noted Beijing's air pollution problem. He believes he will meet a better, newer Beijing in 2008.

Jiahong Liang unexpectedly takes first in the semi-final

By Chu Meng

"The result was totally out of my expectations," the young sprinter said. "Never did I think I could perform that well in the semi-final. My aspiration is to run in the top three in the final tomorrow. The other three competitors are very strong, but I will try my best."

The 18-year-old future star from East China's Guangdong province started his professional athletic career at age 12. "I am going to call my parents right now to tell them the good news because they did not come here. I will do nothing now but relax for the final tomorrow."

Chinese track and field star Liu Xiang is his hero. "His records encourage me a lot. It lets me know that I can achieve what he achieved."

Medal favorite knocked out in 100m semi-final

By Han Manman

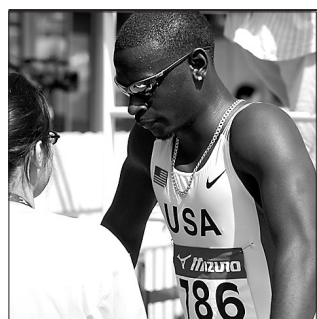

Willie Perry, the favored athlete to take the crown of the men's 100m competition was unexpectedly knocked out in yesterday's semi-final competition.

Perry, with a personal best of 10.12 and the fastest 100m and 200m times in the world for juniors so far this year, failed to win because of a cramp in his left leg that caused him to finish last in his team. He is very unhappy but said the result will not influence his 200m competition.

Harry Aikines-Aryeetey, from

Great Britain took first in the semi-final, with 10.38 seconds. His personal best is 10.35. Yohan Blake from Jamaica stands in second place. Remaldo Rose, also from Jamaica and the 100 meter bronze medalist in the 10th IAAF, finished third.

Anti-doping propaganda at Championships

By Jackie Zhang

The organizing committee of the 11th World Junior Championships has worked together with the World Anti-Doping Agency (WADA) on the anti-doping propaganda at the competition field, said Zhao Jian, director of the stimulant testing department of the committee, at a press conference yesterday.

"A special pavilion has been established beside the competition field with materials on anti-doping," Zhao said, "Because the athletes of the championships are all young people, we want to disseminate basic information on anti-doping to them."

Zhao Jian introduced the basic condition of anti-doping at the Championships. "Compared with the international competitions held in China before, we have arranged stronger human and technical power in exhilarant examination affairs this time," Zhao said, "There are 25 staff and 40 volunteers for the examination work. The officials from the International Association for Athletic Federation (IAAF) will supervise our work and the China Anti-Doping Testing Center is in charge of the specimen testing. The testing results will be reported to the responsible officials from IAAF secretly. So far the stimulant testing work is running smoothly. If there are cases of athletes taking drugs, IAAF will deal with it immediately."

At the press conference, directors from the departments of safety protection, medical care, traffic management and reception also answered questions from the media.

People are very concerned about safety issues. The championships have adopted the same safety protection measure plan for the coming 2008 Beijing Olympics. Cao Hongxiang, director of the safety protection department of the organizing committee said that they had arranged safety working staff at different areas and managed the athletes' hotels according to the Olympic management style. "All the people entering or coming out of the hotels should undergo a safety examination. According to the number of the audience and the fierce condition of spectators, the organizing committee will arrange different numbers of safety working staff at the stadium and other areas."

Zhang Fulai, director of the reception department, said there was a problem in athletes' hotels. "As the athletes are quite young, most of them are fond of playing and reading news on the Internet, but there are not enough facilities in the business centers in the hotels. However, we have adopted measures to try to add more computers in order to meet the young people's needs."

China awarded first ever IAAF level one Cert

By Zhang Ye

Chaoyang Sports Center became the first facility in China to receive a Level One Certification from the IAAF.

IAAF representative Bill Burry, and the director of the Chaoyang District Sports Bureau, Tian Juqing, were present at the ceremony.

The certification means it is qualified for any level of events, including the Olympic Games and other international.

"It's very hard for a ground to get this certification. If a ground wants to apply for the highest certification it has to meet many strict requirements," Bill Burry said.

Burry said that he had seen the new venues for the 2008 Olympic Games. He said that even though they are still under construction he felt they would be great locations for the games. He also said he felt the 2008 games would be successful.

Aussie athletes' families think Beijing is great

By Gan Tian

A 40-person supporter's group from Australia is in Beijing to watch their family members compete in the championships.

After enjoying the opening ceremony yesterday evening, the passionate group has a splendid time touring the tourist sites of Beijing and basking in its idyllic environs. It is the first time that many of them have visited China.

Grant Gloria Holliday, whose daughter is competing in the 10km walk, said he wishes his daughter tries her best and enjoys the competition. "It's a really good opportunity for the juniors all over the world to experience the friendly country that is China. Chinese people really are very friendly and welcoming."

Kiddies thrust into limelight

By Liu Dong

Today was the chance for the young children to take center stage as students from BISS, a Beijing international school, took to the stage at the games.

Elmer Reyes, a PE teacher from BISS and also one of the three organizers of this activity, told the Championship why they were there.

"These kids, aged between nine and twelve, are from more than 20 countries. I want them to cheer the athletes from their own countries. The most important reason we are doing this is that we hope that watching this competition can inspire the children's passion in PE," he said.

Mr Reyes said that the children had little chance to watch top global events. "This is the first time the championships have been held in Beijing. I don't want my students to lose the rare chance to feel the passion of the games," he said. "I hope that they can feel what sport is by watching the games."

Inspired by the passion, these children also felt a little overheated. "I like PE and the competition is really exciting. But it is too hot. I prefer not to be here in summer," said Tim, a nine-year-old child. Other children complained they feared they would be burnt to death.

Estonian spins into history

By Chu Meng

The 11th IAAF World Junior Championships started with a blast in Beijing this morning as 19 year-old Margus Hunt of Estonia set a new World Junior record of 66.35m with a 1.75kg discus in qualifying.

Already a World Junior leader this year with his previous personal best of 65.55m, Hunt set the tone of the competition in what was the first event of the six-day long championships.

It took the 2.05m tall teenager just one attempt to improve on the previous junior standard of 65.88m set by Egypt's Omar El-Ghazaly in 2003.

"Honestly, I was hoping to throw a world record tomorrow in the final but not today and not with my first throw," said a delighted Hunt following his morning's triumph.

"I felt very good this morning, very relaxed and as you know all the best throws come when it feels easy. My throw this morning was an easy job!"

Hunt was born in the small town of Karksi-Nuia in Estonia and he credits the smallness of his town as the reason why he took up athletics seven years ago.

"My town is so small that there wasn't much to do. I thought I should get myself into something and chose athletics. I gave it a try and here I am."

What started as a hobby has turned into the Estonian's main occupation nowadays although the young man refuses to sacrifice his education to sports.

"I graduated last year in my town and I'm now moving to Tallin to go to University. I hope I will stay in Tallin just for a year and then hopefully I can pass my SATS and TOEFL exams to go and study in the States," he explained.

Margus Hunt

An all-round thrower, Hunt is also an excellent shot putter and hammer thrower although he's adamant that the discus is his favorite discipline.

"The Discus Throw is the event I enjoy the most and the one I'm best at, so it works out well. Here in Beijing I will also compete in the Shot Put but I am also a decent Hammer Thrower."

Jokingly he continues. "I have also competed in a Decathlon although it was too long ago for me to remember what my personal best was. I think it's important to be a good balanced athlete, which is why I have had a try at combined events as well."

Hunt was a finalist in the Hammer Throw at the 2003 World Youth Championships in Sherbrooke and sixth in the Discus Throw at the 2004 edition of these championships in Grosseto, Italy.

He finally struck gold in the European Junior Championships last year in Kaunas.

Estonia has a great tradition at throwing and most recently Gerd Kanter and Aleksander Tammert took silver and bronze respectively at the European Championships in Gothenburg.

In addition to being an excellent athlete himself, Tammer who also won bronze at the 2004 Olympic Games in Athens, is Hunt's personal coach.

"I train with Alexander Tammert," explained Hunt. "We train six times a week in the winter and then twice a day six times a week in the summer or approaching a big competition like this one."

Training with such a young coach has increased Hunt's motivation. The teenager's dream is obviously to return to Beijing in two years time to take part in the Olympic Games.

"Of course, being here in Beijing makes me want to return and compete in the Olympics but I know it's going to be tough to qualify. In Estonia we already have three men who can throw around 63 meters and with the 2kg discus, my personal best is around 60 meters. I hope that two years will be enough to improve to their level and be part of the Olympic team."

First things first though as Hunt still has to confirm his status of outstanding favorite for tomorrow's World Junior title especially as his mother will be watching from the stands.

'Next stop, Olympics'

By Han Mamman

"My next goal is the 5,000m gold medal in the 2008 Beijing Olympic Games!" 16 year-old Xue Fei said confidently after she got China's first gold medal in the women's 5,000m final yesterday.

The whole sports center was cheering as she suddenly overtook several runners in the last lap and won with 15:31.61, beating her personal best of 15:38.66.

"I am really satisfied with my performance today. I am also confident for this medal, which is what I have wanted for a long time," said Xue, adding, "If I gave myself a score, it would be 95 percent. I thought I could win the race because I could change my plan according to my competitor's performance."

When commenting on Xue's performance, Feng Shuyong, vice president of the Chinese Athletics Association said, "It is too early to say that China's middle-distance runners have achieved a high level. Compared with the top middle-distance countries, we still have a long way to go and 15:31.61 is just a comparatively reasonable score."

Feng said that Xue won the race because yesterday's running style was suitable for her. The early lap speed was a little slower. "I said before the race that if Xue could follow the leading group closely, she would have a chance to win."

Xue Fei comes from Yangzhou, Jiangsu province. She has been training for the 5,000m for nearly four months. Wang Junxia, the Chinese former long-distance Olympic winner is Xue Fei's idol and came to the sports center to cheer for her.

China's Shot pair bow out blaming injury

Liu Yingpan

Li Li

By Annie Wei

Although Liu Yingpan and Li Li, two Chinese female athletes, did not achieve the results they had hoped for in the final, they are still excellent Shot Putters. Both were born in 1989 and can throw further than 17 meters. Liu Yingpan's best performance was 18.70 meters in 2004.

In this event, Liu came fifth with only 16.73 meters. "I am happy with the result," Liu said. After getting a back and knee injury in 2004, Liu did much worse than previous years.

Li Li who had a reasonable performance in the qualifiers only came sixth with 16.34 meters.

"I am not happy with my result at all," Li said. She admitted that all her moves were wrong under the pressure she gave herself. "I wanted to win in my own country too much and I could not adjust myself well. Other foreign athletes seemed comfortable in a new stadium like this." But Li said that the experience of participating in the World Junior Championship has helped her get used to international events.

Injury wrecks Sudan runner's dream

By Ma Xiaolei

Adam El-Nour, Sudan's hope for 400m gold was injured August 14 morning in training and had to give up taking part in the men's 400m first round. "My foot was hurt and I didn't expect that," he said.

Eighteen year-old El-Nour has previously won the men's 400m World Junior Championships. His personal best is 46.56. Because of his injury, Sudan loses an opportunity of winning a medal.

Adam El-Nour still took part in the men 400m first round competition today in heat seven. He ran a short distance, and then had to give up due to pain. He said: "I pulled the muscles in my left leg when in training yesterday morning. Except for not doing vigorous exercise, the injury doesn't present much difficult to me. I can still walk as usual and I think I will be well again soon."

"We greatly regret that Adam couldn't take part in the competition because of his leg injury," said Jama Adam, a coach from the Sudanese team. "But he is an outstanding young runner and has many chances to do well in other competitions. I hope that he will make great progress and do better in competitions in the future. In the 2008 Olympics, he might be the winner in the men's 400 meters," he said.

Zhang Wanhu Volunteer

"I am a student in Jiangxi University. It is my first time to be a volunteer, so I feel very excited and a little nervous. I will only work during the opening ceremony. Although it is short time and the work is simple, I will try my best."

張乃虎

Guo Nan Security inspector

"As security staff, we had professional training for about five days. The facilities are advanced enough to guarantee safety. We inspect all people, vehicles and goods."

郭楠

Everything is very good! The weather is good for a high jumper so we like it.
